

OurCrowd Forms Strategic Partnership with Cardumen Capital

First Spanish based fund to focus on Israeli startup investment

Jerusalem, Israel / Madrid, Spain – October 3, 2017 – OurCrowd, a leading equity crowdfunding platform today announces that it has formed a strategic partnership with Cardumen Capital, a Spanish-Israeli venture capital fund focused on Deep Tech startup investments. The fund, authorized by the Spanish Securities Market Commission (CNMV) is led by former head of Samsung Ventures Israel, Gonzalo Martinez de Azagra, known for such investments as PrimeSense (acq. by Apple), Replay Technologies (acq. by Intel), and Corephotonics.

“Spanish investors will now have the opportunity to focus on investing in Israeli companies, building ties between Israeli and Spanish technologies,” said OurCrowd CEO Jon Medved.

“We are excited for this new chapter in Spanish Israel relations,” said Cardumen Co-Founder and Managing General Partner, Gonzalo Martinez de Azagra. “Together with OurCrowd, we are building a global community with an experienced team led by leading venture capitalists. Our bilateral fund will invest in pure high-tech companies, as we did at Samsung Ventures, and give access to institutional and corporate investors to these unique opportunities.”

This partnership is part of a growing group of global alliances announced by OurCrowd recently, such as: United Overseas Bank Limited (UOB) in Singapore, The National Australia Bank (NAB) in Australia, The Shanghai Commercial & Savings Bank (SCSB) In Taiwan, Reliance Private Client in India and Innogy SE in Germany.
